REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION FOR 1878.

The Republicans of Maine and all independent voters who are in favor of preserving the credit of the National Government, and a sound currency for the people—equivalent to coin, and redeemable in coin—are requested to send delegates to a State Convention to be held in the City Hall at Portland, Tuesday, July 30th, 1878, at 11 o'clock A. M.

The basis of representation will be as follows:—Each city, town and plantation is entitled to one delegate, and one additional delegate for every 75 votes given for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1876. A fraction of forty votes over the number which is entitled to one delegate, will be accorded a delegate.

The State Committee will be in session the evening preceding, and at 9 o'clock the morning of the Convention, and will receive credentials of delegates.

JAMES G. BLAINE, KENNEBEC, Chairman.
GEORGE C. WING, Androscoggin.
LEWIS B. JOHNSON, Aroostook.
FRED N. DOW, Cumberland.

Republican District Convention.

The Republicans of the Fourth Congressional District, composed of the Counties of Aroostook, Penobscot and Piscataquis, are requested to assemble by their delegates at the CITY HALL, in Bangor,

On WEDNESDAY, the 31st day of July, 1878,

for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Representative from this District to the 46th Congress of the United States, and for transacting such other business as may properly come before said Convention.

Each City, Town, and Plantation shall be entitled to one delegate, and for every seventy-five votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1876, one delegate; and for each fraction of forty votes one additional delegate.

"PREMATURE RIPENING."

[From the Boston Journal.]

The Greenback managers in the Fifth Congressional District of Maine have been forcing their movement to its ultimate and logical conclusion. Usually it takes two or three years to so develop ordinary Greenback theories that they cannot be distinguished from Communism. It has been different in Eastern Maine. Less than a year ago the Greenback leaders began to denounce the National banking system, vilified "bloated bondholders" and declared for a system of "absolute paper money," issued in quantities "sufficient to enable the people to do a cash business." But in the period which has intervened the seed of Greenbackism has been forced to its legitimate fruitage by a sort of hot-house culture, so that on Tuesday a Convention made up of the converts to these newly declared heresies nominated a candidate for Congress who boasted in his speech that he had not been in a school house since he was a boy, that he was not a speaker and took pride in declaring that he was "not worth a dollar in the world." They no longer discussed the question of specie resumption or set forth the desirableness of "fiat money." The element which controlled the Convention has got far beyond such unmeaning preliminaries in the Greenback text book. They talked of "bread or blood," and advocated the startling propositions of the Internationals. They had no longer any need for the mild Greenback journals which advocate a "fiat paper currency," but are the disciples of Brick Pomeroy and applaud the Communistic theories of the Socialist organ.

The gentlemen who had evoked this, one of whom is the editor of the Belfast Age, looked on the convention in dismay. He had expected to be its leader and candidate as he had been their first teacher. The controlling element of the convention scorned him and placed in nomination a man who has been the ringleader in the unsuccessful strike of the stone cutters at Vinalhaven, which cost those men $25,000; a man who, as Secretary of the Stone Cutters Union, is supported by the contributions of labor, and whose only business is to promote dissentions between labor and capital.

The conduct of the convention was so disreputable, the speeches of the leaders so violent, and its nomination so ridiculous, that the Belfast Age, the leading Greenback paper in that section, deprecates and condemns all. Of the conduct of the controlling element in the convention, the Age says.

"Their conduct throughout was most boisterous and disorderly, and it was impossible for the chairman to preserve order. * * * As soon as the organization was effected a Mr. Campbell of Rockland, took the floor and made a very violent speech. His argument, in effect, was bread or blood. He depicted the want and suffering of the laboring classes in the most distressing colors. His argument was substantially that which has been advanced by the Camden Herald—that unless the condition of the laboring men of the country was made better they would be justified in appealing to force. He bitterly denounced the action of Congress refusing to reduce the army, characterizing it as a menace to the suffering laboring people."

The Age confesses that the speeches which called for the most violent applause were those where force and violence was presented as the only alternative should not their demands be acceded to.

Of the candidate, the Age says that his own speech accepting the nomination declares his unfitness. The man who takes pride in his ignorance and boasts that he is not worth a dollar, will not commend himself to the people, the Age remarks, "even were it not notorious as it is that he has been the head centre of all the strikes and troubles which have occurred on the granite Islands."

We commend the example which the Belfast Convention affords of the natural outgrowth of Greenback heresies to those who have been watching the progress of the movement in Maine. The ripening of the heresy in Maine has been hastened by the urgency of the foreign element furnished by the stone-cutting trades unions, but the fruit is full grown and perfect. This early fruitage will check the growth of the new party in Maine, where it is not yet discreditable to possess intelligence or a matter to be proud of that a man forty years of age has not saved a dollar. Sensible people, moreover, have no sympathy with these Communistic brawlers who demand bread or blood.

The number of foreign correspondents and journalists brought together in Berlin by the Congress is estimated at over 100, coming chiefly from London, Paris, Vienna and St. Petersburg, with a small representation from New York. The Plenipotentiaries with their retinues, number over 250. Count Schouvaloff has taken with him to Berlin only English servants.

CONGER'S AMENDMENT.

[Chicago Inter-Ocean.]

The vote in the lower house of Congress on Mr. Conger's joint resolution to amend the Constitution so as to prohibit the payment of rebel claims from the United States Treasury, deserves attention. It is instructive to both sides of the question. It goes to show that the South is almost unanimous in favor of payment, and the North against it. It was unexpected. Conger is shrewd, and thoroughly informed as to the intent of the Southern Democracy in relation to these claims, and his resolution was not merely a bit of party strategy, but was the only safe way to protect the nation. The Democrats were not expecting anything of the kind, and were panic-stricken. Those who were supposed to know more than the rest of them were immediately surrounded and plied with questions as to what course should be pursued. The Speaker could not be relied upon to rule it out of order, for Conger had taken care to select his time. It would not do to lay it upon the table, for such a vote would be as significant as one upon the main question. Therewas no way but to record their votes for or against it. Of the two hundred and six members voting, one hundred and forty-five were in the affirmative and sixty-one in the negative. Four Southern Democrats only voted in the affirmative—Acklin, of Louisiana; Glover, of Missouri; Roberts, of Maryland and Turner, of Kentucky. Six Northern Democrats record themselves in favor of paying the claims. This vote, added to the manner in which Tilden's rebel-claims letter was received and the fact that the prominent men and newspapers of the South continue to advise former slave-owners to preserve the evidence of the value and loss of their slaves with a view of being paid when "the proper time comes," ought to be sufficient warning to all who do not wish to see this great iniquity accomplished. The pretended reference of them to the Court of Claims will be made with the view to the coming campaign in the North. Those pending before Congress are such as the Court of Claims have no jurisdiction to try, or have tried and refused to allow. Every one of them increased in amount will return next session to the House or Senate roll, and stay there until allowed by the Democrats or until an amendment similar to Mr. Conger's is made to the Constitution of the United States. There is but one way for the people to protect themselves, and that is to send Republicans to Congress.

FIRST ASIATIC EMIGRATION TO AMERICA.

[From the New York Tribune.]

An expedition is to be fitted out soon in Eastern Asia under the direction of the German authorities of Berlin for scientific study and researches concerning the early settlement of America by Asiatics. It will be under the supervision of a young American, of German parentage, Dr. Alex. v. H. Van der Horck, who was sent by the authorities of Berlin in 1875-76 in the Arctic Sea, on the coast of Lapland, for the purpose of traversing the interior of the country of the Lops, to the Baltic. Dr. Van der Horck gave an address before the American Geographical Society in 1876 on the results of that expedition. He is a son of Captain John Van der Horck, of Minneapolis, Minn., who with Carl Schurz was one of the revolutionary refugees of 1848, and who served in the Union army during the rebellion.

Dr. Van der Horck, writing to a friend in this city from Singapore, on his way to Hong Kong, says the mission intrusted to him by the Government and the Berlin Geographical Society, is to organize an expedition to traverse the whole eastern Asiatic coast—the islands especially—up into the Polar seas; then crossing at Behring's strait, to follow down the western coast of America to Oregon. He says the objects of the expedition are scientific investigations, ocean surveys, deep-sea dredgings, geological, zoological and botanical researches, and, above all, anthropological studies concerning the emigration of races from Asia to the American continent, and to see if remains of an ancient migratory people cannot be found on the isolated groups of islands of those wild regions. It is a field, he adds, that has not been worked, and promises a rich harvest. The means at the disposal of the expedition will be liberal, and the time unlimited. It will take considerable time carefully to prepare the necessary plans and charts, after which it is expected that the work of the expedition will consume three or four years.

The time has pretty much ceased when immigrants come to this country from any religious motive. Self-interest and a desire to better their condition, and not political or religious freedom, influence the great bulk of the accession to our population. While we are glad that religious tyranny has so ceased in Europe that neither Protestants nor Catholics are obliged to seek new homes for conscience sake, we were always sure, when they did come for that reason, that they had some of the best qualities of mankind, and were likely to make sober, virtuous and self-denying citizens. Little was definitely known of the Mennonites of Russia until they began to come to the United States and Canada, a few years since, to escape the oppression of the Greek priesthood and service in the Russian army, against which their religion teaches them to object for the same reason as the Quakers; but experience has shown, as might have been expected, that they are of the best class of emigrants, frugal, industrious and self-denying, and consequently prosperous. They continue to come in still larger numbers in spite of all the concessions made to please, by the Russian Government, and it promises to be a complete exodus of all the race and faith.—They are of the material to make the best of citizens after a little education and experience, and what in Russia's loss promises to be our gain.

A Washington special says: "The reports that Secretary Sherman contemplates resuming specie payments at an earlier day than January first appear to be well grounded. The aggregate amount of coin available for redemption purposes on Saturday afternoon was two hundred million dollars, and greenbacks are redeemable in silver. It is said not to be the policy of the department to attempt to materially increase this amount before resumption, although it is not clearly understood how much amount. He has always insisted, however, that resumption would be practicable with even one hundred millions of dollars. Secretary Sherman, when questioned on Saturday evening, would not positively say whether he contemplated attempting resumption on the first day of August; but another Cabinet officer said there was no doubt that the report of resuming before Congress assembles is well founded, and he thought August first might be chosen. Secretary Sherman has long held that under the Resumption act he has almost unlimited powers, and can even receive greenbacks for customs dues. By attempting resumption early in the fall the Treasury Department would have the advantage of the fact that the moving of crops would require the use of a great bulk of greenbacks.

The diplomacy of Western Europe made the integrity of the Turkish Empire a principle of European politics. Russian diplomacy has been for years seeking to break down this principle, and has held tenaciously to a policy whose ulterior object was to drive Islam from its ancient conquests in Christendom. There is in the Berlin conference, outside of the Turkish delegates, not a single advocate of the integrity of the Turkish Empire. Is this a triumph for the diplomacy of Western Europe?

When the treaty of San Stefano was published Austria and England objected to the retrocession of Bessarabia. England objected to the independence of Roumania, and Austria to the independence of Servia and Montenegro. But the retrocession of Bessarabia and the independence of Roumania, Servia, and Montenegro have all been secured.

A paper at Okolona, Miss., indorses the Jeff Davis Macon letter, and adds:

"When we have obtained the upper hand we propose to undo what has been done by the Radicals since 1871, as far as lies in our power. We propose to tear the negro amendments out of the Constitution. We propose to restore the Planter Republic of our fathers in all its purity and simplicity.

"We should have more witnesses in this investigation than the Republicans," said a Democratic inquisitor, "because we had ten thousand majority in Louisiana." "Ah, yes," replied Mr. Hiscock, "it takes many more Democrats to establish a fact than it does Republicans."

COTTAGE LOTS BY THE SEASIDE.

The undersigned offers a portion of his desirable estate, situated in South Harpswell, for sale in lots to suit purchasers. These lots form a portion of the end of the Neck, known as Crabbeer's Neck, distant from Bar Harbor, about seven miles from the Orient House (three miles from the Village) and Gouldsboro shores. The same distance. They command an unbroken view of the waters of Frenchman's Bay, and of the Mountains of Mount Desert Island, and afford the best of facilities for sailing, fishing and bathing. It is not too much to say that there is no other place on the coast of Maine which combines so many attractions for sea-side resort as this. Steamer May Field from Bangor touches once a week and Steamer Charles Houghton from Rockland three times a week.

TUESDAY, JULY 9, 1878.

BY TELEGRAPH.

MAINE NEWS.

FROM SACO

Fire.

SACO, July 8. The house, barn, contents and all the live stock except one horse belonging to John O'Rourke, on the Berry road in this city, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday noon. Loss about $1,500. Insured. The cause of the fire is unknown.

FROM AUGUSTA.

Sudden Death of Hon Alanson Starks.

AUGUSTA, July 8th. Hon. Alanson Starks, County Treasurer of Kennebec County, died very suddenly at his home in this city this afternoon, of heart disease. He had been at his usual occupation and died in less than half an hour after being attacked. He was one of the financial cabinet of the county, having held the position of Register of Deeds some dozen years; two years in the Executive Council, and County Treasurer ten years.

Found Dead.

S. T. Garland, a farmer, was found dead by the road-side this afternoon.

CAMP-MEETINGS.

At Old Orchard Beach.

BIDDEFORD, July 8. Three camp-meetings are to be held on the camp ground at Old Orchard Beach, commencing July 29th and continuing until about the 20th of August. The first commences July 25 h, under the charge of Rev. Dr. Curtis of Boston and continues ten days. At the close of this there is to be a State camp-meeting commencing of ten days, and the Portland district campmeeting immediately after, lasting one week. The camp grounds have been much improved and many cottages added during the past year and large successful meetings are expected.

CONGRESSMAN REED.

NEW ORLEANS, July 8. Hon. T. B. Reed of Me., Republican member of the Potter sub-committee, left this afternoon via Mobile for home. Cox of Ohio, is expected to-morrow to take Mr. Reed's place in the committee.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

THE REDMANS.

A Terrible Death.

PORTLAND, Oregon, July 8. Governor Chadwick, now at Umatilla, telegraphs under date of the 8th as follows: The Volunteers under Sperry, 300 strong, were defeated at Willow Springs, 20 miles south of Pendleton yesterday. Sperry was killed and nearly all his officers wounded. We can hear of but seven left.

Hamilton Stewart has died.

PORTLAND, O., July 8. The following is named from W. P. Dennett, is dated, the 6th: Dispatches from Canyon City report the hostiles strongly fortified 25 miles from Canyon City, waiting to give Howard battle. Howard's forces were expected to engage the hostiles on the morning of the 7th. There are about 1000 Indians supposed armed.

Movements to Reach Up the Redskins' Forces.

The following despatch was also received:

HEADQUARTERS DEPT. COLUMBIA, In Field, July 6.

Col. Frank Wilcox, 2nd Infantry, Wallula.

General Howard directs me to say that you will immediately procure a steamboat, equip it with artillery and patrol the Columbia river, in order to intercept the hostiles should they attempt to cross. The present location of the Indians is on the north fork of John Day's river, near the mouth of Granite Creek. If they sent out moving northward they will strike the Columbia river somewhere about the mouth of Willard creek. They may, however, turn eastward, passing by the head of Mc-Kay's creek and keep to the left of the Grand Ronde. You will keep a bright lookout in order to strike them as soon as they get into your neighborhood. General Howard was with the cavalry and will follow on the trail. Dantzell is ordered from Malheur to report to Grover. Egbert is ordered from Boise, making last June on the Camas road northeast of the Umatilla. Indians have joined the hostiles. All are stealing horses and moving with them. The trail indicates a very large number of Indians with about 1,000 horses.

(Signed) COL. MASON

Howard's and Wheaton's Positions.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 8. The following despatch from General Howard dated Prineville via San Francisco 8th inst has been received at the War Department:

A delayed despatch from Howard dated Crindstone, on Granite Creek June 29th, reports that the hostile Indians were about a day's march ahead of him apparently moving towards Weiowa Valley. Wheaton telegraph from Walla-Walla, that the movement northward anticipated by him has actually occurred. Agent Cooper informs him the Umatilla Indians fought 400 hostile Snakes all day July 7 killing 30 and losing 2. This at a point 40 miles south of the agency and about 80 miles south of Walla-Walla. The people from Umatilla and Walluwa are coming for protection to Walla-Walla and that the people 6 miles from Pendleton have been driven in by hostile Indians. Wheaton is uncertain whether the Indians intend crossing Snake River near its mouth, or whether they will turn east near the Snake River country. He asks for troops. He has not yet been in communication with Howard as telegraphed you on the 3d, inst.

I sent to the Columbia the two companies of the 5th just up from Arizona. Another company which has just come into Yuma will be sent as soon as it arrives, together with the four companies I have ordered from Camp McDermit to Winnemucca, then by rail to take the steamer to Portland.

An Attack on a Hostile Band.

Portland despatch—The following despatch has just been received here from Gov. Chadwick

UMATILLA, July 8—10.30 A. M

Major Kress at 2 o'clock this afternoon went down the river on the steamer Spokan to Coyote, a station 15 miles below Umatilla, and two miles south of the river found hostile Indians crossing with a large number of horses. He ran upon them, when some of the horses returned to the Oregon side and the others crossed the river. The Major made an attack on the Indian camps and destroyed it and everything about it, including all the canoes.

A number of saddle blankets and buffalo robes were found at the camp of hostiles who have been in sight all the morning with their stocks. Scouts are out and General Howard was at Prine Rock yesterday. Gen. Howard has with him a small band of Indians with about 60 head of horses passed down the opposite side and he right of this place this forenoon, to join the hostiles that crossed below. A friendly Indian stated that the Hostiles had divided into three parties, two would go below the Umatilla and the other would come this way, but all of them would cross the river, attempting to gather in the remaining Indians for a protracted campaign. Major Kress is now patrolling the river.

NEW YORK CITY.

Abuse of a Prisoner.

NEW YORK, July 8. Mrs. Sullivan, a niece of Rose McLaughlin, is matron of the Brooklyn penitentiary, and Mr. Mason the keeper of the female institution is a relative of the same name. The former recently enrolled a poor colored female prisoner on the charge of "cussing" the Sullivan women, and the latter refused to allow newspaper reporters to see either Sullivan, the woman whipper, or her victim. The Sullivan influence is supposed will shield the latter, unless public opinion intervenes. The laws of New York prohibit such whipping on penalty of fine and imprisonment.

WASHINGTON.

Present Committee.

WASHINGTON, July 8. Representative Springer says that the Potter Committee will not require more than one or two weeks in session and that by that time the work will be completed in New Orleans. A Lagniappe will be published. Mollogg will hardly leave his desk.

Miss Winnie Weber.

It is stated that a bookie in New Orleans, well known there, is ready to testify to having paid Weber for a prominent Democrat $1500 for vacating his seat in the Louisiana Senate, if able to leave it without such payment. Weber is totally prostrated on a bed in Mobile ready to help start Lagniappe to the Federal Capital. It is also stated that proof can be had that a check was used recently in support of Anderson who bought it by a parcel of goods, the deposit being made in the hands of a well known Democrat. It is said that Anderson was ready to accept a higher bid from Sherman, but failed to get it.

The Modoc Question.

In an interview yesterday the Secretary of State said that there is no new trouble with Mexico, and that Mexican affairs were never more quiet. Secretary Evarts thinks the reported pending war with Mexico must be a pronunciamento as the Secretaries of War and Navy have both gone to summer excursions.

Lieutenant-Governor Wheeler.

At the request of the Secretary of State delegates at large, chief clerk of the Secretary of State, and others on the 4th had consultation with the Governor at Manchester to which he unanimously confirmed and will to-day in the general position. Another appointment to the committee has been decided upon.

CRIME.

The Tramps' Heroism.

NEW CITY, July 8. Farmers of Knox Co., Ohio, united to pursue in Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati to-day to capture robbers in that county. Tramps to destroy the property of farmers who use means to protect their crops. The farmers have formed secret organizations, one of the duties being to keep their guns loaded at present they are tampering with their cartridges or shops.

VIRGINIA.

The Mr. Kenner.

It is stated that Mr. Kenner, a member of the Potter Committee, who defeated at the Democratic Congressional Convention at Alexandria, Va., Saturday for renomination on the ground that he was too much in sympathy with investigating and other committees and neglected the private business of those who should be represented in Congress.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The New Election Law.

NEW YORK, July 8. A Raleigh letter to the Times says that the new election law of North Carolina is one of unusual importance for combining the support of white-the people of the Democratic party with the support of the colored people being made in the hands of a small number of men in each county. The law requires the appointment of a registrar and three judges of election in each township, county seat and ward of cities, and these officers are to be selected from the two political parties in the proportion of two from the party casting the largest vote at the last election and one from the party casting the next largest vote. The registrar and judges of election are to be appointed by the county commissioners, who are to be selected by the Democratic members of the General Assembly from the two political parties in the proportion of two Democrats to one Republican
